Teased over his mother's affair, boy kills her lover

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Rajkot: Pent-up anger over being teased for his mother's elopement, a 19-year-old boy stabbed to death her former paramour in Bhavnagar district's Budhel village on Thursday night.

Police said the assailant Kana Rathod's mother Gita had eloped with the deceased Kalu Makwana five years ago. Then, Makwana was 19 and Gita 35 years old.

Makwana used to often come to his sister Nita's house from his native Sartanpur village and entered into a relationship with Gita who took a liking for him. The duo had eloped but returned after a few days.

For the last 10 days, Makwana had been staying with his sister and taking care of her farm.

"However, villagers started murmuring about their affair and many of them teased her son Kana saying that Makwana would again elope with his mother again as he had come to the village. Kana was seething with anger with friends and other villagers constantly poking fun at him," said investigating officer M S Jadeja of Vartej police station.

On Thursday night, Kana went to Nita's house and started hurling epithets at Makwana. Makwana went out and an altercation broke out.

Kana then pulled out a knife and repeatedly stabbed Makwana in the chest, killing him on the spot. Kana too suffered knife injuries in the fight and has been hospitalized under the watch of police, said Jadeja.

4 crocodiles rescued

Vadodara: Four crocodiles were rescued from different areas of the city in the last 24 hours. Volunteers of 'Save Wildlife Trust' had received three calls to rescue crocodiles on Wednesday.

The volunteers said that they rescued a three-foot-long crocodile from Tarsali, a three-foot-long crocodile from Mujmahuda and another baby crocodile from Maneja.

The Wildlife SOS Trust, along with GSPCA, too rescued a two-foot-long crocodile near Laxmi Vilas Palace on Wednesday. Many crocodiles have been venturing out of the Vishwamitri that is brimming with waters over the last few weeks.

More than 15 crocodiles have been rescued from various areas of the city and villages this month. TNN
